Gold medal in Commercial

Who is DDiArte?

DDiArte is a pair of two photographers and painters in the region of Madeira, Diamantino Jesus and Diego José Vasconcelos.

They create dreamlike images both for advertising, and for the world of galleries and art.
You can admire their imaginations and creativity in the following

Please, tell us about yourself, your hobbies and your other passions.

Before beginning the photography, we DDiArte, were painters, we did very realistic paintings, we still love painting, but unfortunately we have no time now to do it! we start doing video and the music as hobbies! travel is our passion.

How your story and life experiences affect your photography?

Living and watching the daily life of people, and our of course, influence the main themes of our work.

What are your most important experiences that influenced your art?

The most important was the contemplation and study of the classical paintings and the knowledge of mythology of some cultures.

What attracted you to photography?

Telling a story in a single image where no one can be indifferent to it.

Why are you so attracted by the portrait and creative photography?

Cause we can create all our ideas to tell stories that criticises society in all ways and themes.

What is most important to you, the story behind your images or technical perfection?

Both are very important, we can't accept an excellent story but not created in perfection, the story is not credible, and the way around we appreciate the technique but only that, its an empty work.

What relationship do you usually have with your theme, beyond just being an observer?

We have a complete passion for what we are creating, we live the work as we are inside it, maybe that's why we participate in many as models, and always trying the perfection.

Do you carefully prepare the locations or settings before shooting?

In nature we try always to choose the perfect place, and when we shoot indoors we always prepare the location very careful.

What equipment do you use and what software to edit and create your images?

If we don't have natural light we always use continue light, never use flash. Always our Canon camera, and we only use photoshop as software.

Can you tell us something more about your work flow?

Us usually we have many projects at the same time, as each project take too much time to finish we must have our mind not always thinking on the same think. As the photo is being constructed we do many photo shootings for it cause we are always imagining more things or models to put in it, so we can take months or years to conclude a photo.

Can you tell us something more about your work flow?

Usually we have many projects at the same time, as each project takes too much time to finish we must have our mind not always thinking on the same thing. As the photo is being constructed we do many photo shootings for it because we are always imagining more things or models to put in it, so we can take months or years to conclude a photo.

What is your most important advice for a beginner in photography (portrait, illustration, wedding, food, advertising) or creative retouching of photographs, and how to start?

If they want to do the same kind of photos we do, please be perfectionist and try to be original in the way of telling the story, don't need to have the best equipment, with some talent and hard work you get there, and never publish a work that you think is not perfect.

Who are your favorite photographers, and more importantly, how your appreciation of their work has affected how you approach your own photography?

We have many favourite photographers but they didn't influence our work in a way that is important to mention.

Are there a specific photo taken by another photographer that inspired you so much and why?

We are inspired by the classical painters and not for other photographers.

Are there specific directions you would like to take your photography in the future, or specific goals that you would like to achieve?

We are always trying new things in photo shootings and post production invented by us, in a short time we will present some new things and then we will see if it works or not and if it will be well accepted or not by our followers.

Describe your favorite photograph taken by you and why it is special to you?

All our images are very important, it's difficult to choose a favourite, maybe is "Cupid's Playground", it took two years to concluded till we were satisfied with the final result to the question "What is Love?" and the photo answer to it in our very personal way. It's a photo that gave DDiArte lots of international awards:

2015 - 2º Prize "Fine Art Photography Awards" Conceptual Category - London

2015 - 1º Prize Photography Masters Contest - Italy

2014 - 1º Prize Gold Medal in "World Photographic Cup" in Illustrative/Fine Art - USA

Finalist 4° Commercial

Please, tell us about yourself, your hobbies and your other passions.

Right now my passions are all mainly connected to imaging. I breed photography and images and I'm living my job in a way that makes me think in images/photography every time, everywhere.

I'm a big fan of arts in general, so I'm always interested in things connected to arts, mainly bidimensional images like photography, painting, drawing, etc.

Apart from this world I'm a big fan of basketball, I'm not playing anymore but I follow the NBA.

Then, I'm not musician and I don't have acknowledged in that area, but music makes a big part of my days of work.

What are your most important experiences that influenced your art?

In the university I choosed arts too and I finished the Decorative Arts degree.

Basicaly this was a course of design and decoration and that approach to this world was interesting because in the course I needed to create the projects to construct an object and then construct the object manually with different materials. So, working in many different materials was a great experience for me, because in the production part of photography, sometimes we need to construct some objects to help an image creation.

What attracted you to photography?

What I really like in photographic it's the freedom to create with any limitations. I love to use the technology available today and work with powerful ideas. My type of work is more conceptual and the firsts steps of thinking in a idea/concept are so important and I like that type of process. I like challenges and create something from the beginning it's a big challenge.

How your story and life experiences affect your photography?

I started my life not in photography but in arts. I used to draw a lot and the connection to arts helped me a lot to see the world in a different way and that's really important when you want to create something in photography or in other areas of art.

I believe every different experiences affect our own way to see the world and the fact of starting with a big connection to arts helped me a lot in photography.

Why are you so attracted by the portrait and creative photography?

The response to that question it's easy . We are human and images of people has a strong power in us. We feel attracted by the human presence in images and I feel that too.

Talking about creative photography, the creative process are maybe the thing where we have more freedom to produce and at the same time, this a really strong area of imaging, because we can show ideas with images, and this challenges the people minds.

What is most important to you, the story behind your images or technical perfection?

I cannot choose one because I think if we are professional we really need to think in everything, technical part and the ideas/story.

That's maybe the difference between a professional and an amateur photographer.

What relationship do you usually have with your theme, beyond just being an observer?

In the type of photography I do, sometimes we need to live/feel the places/atmosphere/situations. That's normally what I do when I'm near the subject to produce an image. So, in the beginning I start like an observer but then I enter in the world of the subject to feel it.

Do you carefully prepare the locations or settings before shooting?

Because I work in creative/conceptual photography sometimes with a lots of post production in Photoshop, I know the difficulties of solving problems in Photoshop. So, every time I can prepare the location to turn the work easier in Photoshop I will do it. And that part of preparation is really important when you work in conceptual photography.

What equipment do you use and what software to edit and create your images?

Right now I'm using the Canon EOS 5D Mk3 and mainly the Canon 70-200mm 2.8 IS and 24-70mm 2.8, Canon MP-E 65mm 2.8 (for macrophotography) and the Tamron 15-30mm 2.8.

In the computer my workflow passes between two programs, Photoshop to edit and Adobe Bridge to browse and organize.

When I need to print I use the high quality services of KoyLab services.

Can you tell us something more about your work flow?

Because my type of work it's based in conceptual imaging, every image is different, so normally I use just Photoshop to do the post production.

As a viewer and organizer I use the Adobe Bridge. I really like the simple way of searching and showing the images of Adobe Bridge.

Who are your favorite photographers, and more importantly, how your appreciation of their work has affected how you approach your own photography?

In my case, more important than the references in photography, my main references come from the arts world. So my references are artists like Salvador Dali, Rene Magritte and mainly M.C.Escher.

In this moment I'm delighted with the work of Vladimir Kuch (painting).

For me, this artist has a huge relation between them. Every them created their own realities and worlds, normally surreal/fantasy worlds and I really like that style.
That's why this author influenced me a lot.

What is your most important advice for a beginner in photography (portrait, illustration, wedding, food, advertising) or creative retouching of photographs, and how to start?

To everyone who are starting, I think the education is needed. It's the fastest way to improve. It's really important to have a portfolio with a great selection of images, just the best images and not too much images.

After that it's important to believe in our work. If we don't believe we can't make someone believe in us.

Are there a specific photo taken by another photographer that inspired you so much and why?

I think I don't have a specific image that inspired me but a group of images. In my childhood I studied some M.C. Escher images in an exhaustive way and that was an important part of the process.

Are there specific directions you would like to take your photography in the future, or specific goals that you would like to achieve?

I have to goals in my life related to photography.

First of all I want to have fun every time with the work I'm doing because be satisfied is maybe the best feeling when we are working.

Then, I would like to leave some marks of my photography in this world. It would be nice to create my own little space in history of photography. I think every author would like that.

Describe your favorite photograph taken by you and why it is special to you?
I sent the image attached to you with the file name: Castle (page 30)

The authors construct a characteristic relationship with their own images, and the feelings can affect the way we see our own images.

So, one of my favorite images it's the one whose make me won the FEP - European Photographer of the Year 2010 award and some other awards.

Those image its part of my most important project named Surrealism where I realized the floating islands. That specific image is a floating island with a castle on top connected to the rocks with four chains. The atmosphere is dramatic and the image is based in brown tones.

The style of this image and the entire project it's really my favorite style, so that's why it's special to me too.

Please, tell us about yourself, your hobbies and your other passions.

I have several hobbies, sports, music, design, Visual Arts and photography, although this last one is what occupies me the most. And I mean photography because in addition to commercial photography, which I do as professional photographer, I also have personal projects where I seek to explore the limits of this art.

How does your story and life experiences affect your photography?

What are your most important experiences that influenced your art?

It is safe to say that my entire life experience affects how I photograph.

As Ansel Adams said: "You don't make a photograph just with a camera. You bring to the act of photography all the pictures you have seen, the books you have read, the music you have heard, the people you have loved." This is one of those phrases that makes the most sense for me because often, when I'm doing a photo, I feel influenced by this or that author, this or that song, this or that film. But I can also feel influenced by something I saw in a magazine, even if it has nothing to do with photography, or even by the more recent exhibition I've seen, and going to exhibitions is probably one of the things that most inspire me to create.

What attracted you to photography?

I've always liked to paint, but painting was always a very aggressive act, physically and psychologically very demanding. I could spend a whole week locked in a room just painting, only with the company of music, to see the work completed as fast as I could. When I started shooting I realized that photography would give me the same kind of artistic freedom with much faster results, and it also had the element of surprise because we never fully control the resulting image.

Why are you so attracted by the portrait and creative photography?

What attracts me to portrait photography is the challenge and the difficulty it represents. I like people, I like to analyze people, to observe the traces of each face. To grasp the essence of someone is for me one of the most difficult tasks, and I'm never fully satisfied, it seems that we always escape a nuance, that we always leave something to be said.

What is most important to you, the story behind your images or technical perfection?

To me one is not more important than the other, but It's when the two go hand in hand that emerge the best results.

What relationship do you usually have with your theme, beyond just being an observer?

In my case I need to get interested in the subject I intend to capture, but usually I find with ease some viewpoint that interests me.

Do you carefully prepare the locations or settings before shooting?

Yes, of course, every time I have the chance.

What equipment do you use and what software to edit and create your images?

Can you tell us something more about your work flow?

The equipment and the techniques I use depends largely on the type of work concerned.

What is your most important advice for a beginner in photography (portrait, illustration, wedding, food, advertising) or creative retouching of photographs, and how to start?

The only advice I can give is to do everything with the utmost dedication and love for our art.

Who are your favorite photographers, and more importantly, how your appreciation of their work has affected how you approach your own photography?

One of the things I fall in love with was the study of the work of great masters, and many of them influenced me a lot. But, as cornerstone, can cite the name of the great Carlos Relvas.

In fact, let me make an invitation to all photography lovers that visit Portugal to find out the home studio where he lived and worked. It's a 19TH century building that is in flawless condition, and is unique in the world.

http://www.casarelvas.com/site/uk/php/casa_estudio.php

Are there a specific photo taken by another photographer that inspired you so much and why?

For me it is impossible to name a specific photo because almost every day I'm amazed with the works of other photographers

Are there specific directions you would like to take your photography in the future, or specific goals that you would like to achieve?

I just hope I can continue to shoot until the day I leave this world.

Describe your favorite photograph taken by you and why it is special to you?

My favourite photograph is a self-portrait that I made in honor of Carlos Relvas. It is a remake of one of his famous self-portrait, which was also the photograph that triggered my interest for the work of this great master. I've always liked self-portrait, by the experimentalist and revealing character that it has. This work had various stages and I only started to retouch the photo almost a year after capturing the image. I remember that the session was a disappointment and that the results didn't please me in the least. But when I started to retouch the photo something strange happened, I felt like I was being conducted, as if someone was telling me exactly what to do. Weeks later I decided to send the photo to the qualifications in Portugal and the result was a historic qualification with 100 points.

Today, every time I look at the picture, I don't know who is in it, if me or Carlos.

Bronze medal in Reportage / Photojournalism

Jorge Bacelar was born on 12th June 1966 in Figueira de Castelo Rodrigo. He is a veterinarian by trade but has always nurtured a love of photography despite only taking to it seriously in 2011.

His work as a field vet in the area of Murtosa, in Portugal's northern Aveiro district has been his greatest inspiration. It has allowed him to get close to the preferred subjects for his photographs: rural farmers and their livestock. His photos have a raw, almost painterly quality that shows his close relationship with the people he photographs. He believes his photography gives access to a world few people know about.

"I spend hours talking to people," Bacelar says. "The type of photos I take are very intimate. I photograph people inside their homes, their stables and that needs a certain amount of intimacy and close friendship."

WHAT THE LABEL Digigraphie® ?

The "Digigraphie®" label is an international recognition of excellence in printing. This label allows photographers artists to produce limited editions, numbered, signed and stamped of their original works in very high quality, with a life span of several generations.

Digigraphie® is a label that meets specific criteria and strict uses. Elevator Pitch Workshop

Workshop last minute

Dear photography friends,

Once again, our Spring-Summer program will contain entertaining and elaborate portrait and nude photography workshops.

We'll offer you many techniques and practical tips to capture precious moments in powerful images, and plenty of possibility to practice yourself!

Learn how to choose locations, how to use accessories and backgrounds, how to play with light and composition, how to position your model and yourself as a photographer, how to guide a model into a mood, how to analyse and correct poses and movements.

Learn to work with available light, in- and outdoors. Learn to achieve a personal style, to build a consistent portfolio.

Enjoy the gorgeous locations, the many short and long sessions you will do, the professional models (1 model per 3 photographers), the to-the-point feedback moments.
